CHILDREN'S CHORUS PROGRAM ON RADIO

Voices Of 100 Will Be Heard
On Broadcast

DAYTON, Dec. 24—Broadcast over a national radio hook-up of more than 100 stations on the Columbia Broadcasting System network, a special Christmas Eve program by the famous Children's Chorus of the Inland Manufacturing Division of General Motors Corporation, in Dayton, will be heard Wednesday at 10:15 P. M.

Now in its sixth season, the Inland Children's Chorus has achieved a noteworthy reputation, under the direction of Richard Westbrook, through constant and exacting training routines which give the chorus professional finesse despite the fact that members do no professional singing. All are children of Inland employes, and range in age from eight to 15 years.

The Children's Chorus now has a membership of some 170. For concert work, 100 members are chosen on a competitive basis.

Children's Chorus In Gala Holiday Concert

It's the day before Christmas, and all through the land, there's singing of carols on every hand, and not the least of the caroling groups is the Inland Division Children's Chorus, one hundred strong, to be heard tonight at 10:15 over WHEC.

The group, which was formed in 1936 by Richard Westbrook, the present conductor, is composed of children of employes of the sponsoring company. The ages range from eight to fifteen.

Tonight's program consists of "Glory to God in the Highest," by Pergolesi, Vittoria's "Ave Maria," Adam's "O Holy Night," Pietro Yon's "Gesù Bambino," the "Prayer" from Hummerdick's "Hansel and Gretel," and Dickinson's "Shepherd's Story."
