

January 11, 1950
Dayton Journal Herald

January 15, 1950
The Dayton Daily News

As teen agers, Bob Connair, John Carlin, Paula Shay, Bob Wilhelm and Bob Huehler sang in the Inland children's chorus.

Now all but Paula are lending their voices to the Holy Rosary choir, but they're anxious to organize a group of alumni of the Inland children's chorus. With the approval of the chorus director, Richard Westbrook, they're hunting names of former members of the chorus.

Bob Connair requests graduates of the children's chorus to drop him a post card with their names and addresses to him at 610 Hodapp avenue.

When the names are compiled, the group will send news of meetings to be held at the Loretto, each month.

Source: Newspapers.com

Plan Meetings

AN organization of "graduates" of the Inland Children's chorus is in the embryo stage, according to Bob Connair who for several years was a member of the chorus. The group plans monthly social get-togethers for both men and women.

Prospective members of the group have been urged to send cards signifying their intentions to Connair at 610 Hodapp av.

January 18, 1950
Dayton Journal Herald

MEMO FROM Robert J. Connair and Richard Westbrook: "We're making plans to reorganize the graduates of the Inland Children's Chorus for some future date . . . can you put out an SOS for all graduates to send a postcard to Connair, 610 Hodapp avenue, with name, address and telephone number? We'll send a questionnaire to them, then . . ." . . . ok, here 'tis . . .

Source: Newspapers.com